Each and every day, the Field Band Foundation (FBF) provides life-changing opportunities for the youth of South Africa through music. Members participate in music lessons, ensemble workshops, performance practice, festivals, and competitions.

Youth from the poorest and most challenged households in South Africa find a safe environment in which to explore their personal potential as young people living in a turbulent society and to help them rise out of poverty. Members attend workshops through which they build self-esteem by participating in activities that focus on commitment, cooperation, self-discipline and HIV prevention.

What You Can Do

- Hold a benefit concert or event at your college or high school.
- Become a friend on Facebook – and communicate with members of the FBF in South Africa.
- Donate gently used instruments.
